"Jamie is an inspiring instructor... her enthusiasm for the business and passion for delivering quality service to her clients & students is admirable." - Amy

ABOUT JAMIE:

On her own at the age of 15 and overcoming drug addiction when she learned she'd become a mother at 19, Jamie lived a self-reliant life, filled with pressure to build a better life for her and her son. Her figure-it-out mentality helped her rebuild her life from a single Rubbermaid tote and went on to build 3 businesses that she runs today.

She learned that strategic systems were instrumental in her financial success but it was learning to practice deep self-awareness that allowed her to genuinely break free from pressure and value herself so deeply so she could navigate challenges with feelings of peace and align her strategies with her true self. Now she utilizes this powerful tool in all areas of her life and is on a mission to help others do the same.

As an alignment coach, she helps female entrepreneurs develop a practice of self-awareness so they can break free from the pressure and overwhelm and experience peace with a strategy that is aligned with their true needs and desires.
